Safety Guidelines for Face Painters:

Face painting is a great way to entertain, but safety is important to consider before you begin. Using only products rated for cosmetic use, as well as good hygiene practices, will ensure your clients will get the best experience possible.

1. Only use paints which are cosmetic grade, made with FDA compliant ingredients. Note: non-toxic does not equal safe for skin.
2. Glitter and adhesives must be cosmetic grade as well. Craft glitter is abrasive and can damage eyes, but cosmetic glitter is round-cut polyester, which is very fine and safe to apply to skin.
3. Only use brushes and sponges which have never been used for any other purpose. Craft brushes should not be used if they have previously been used with paints that are not skin-safe.
4. Use clean water to rinse brushes between clients. No additives are necessary in the water. Change water frequently.
5. Paint only clean skin, which is free from abrasion, rash and body fluid. Have parents clean up messy faces before you begin.
6. Sanitize between clients; use hand sanitizer frequently.
7. Do not paint any person who is sick. Fever, green runny noses, coughing and all obvious illness should be turned away to minimize risk of spreading germs to others.
